

KINSHASA IN TRANSITION: WOMEN'S EDUCATION, EMPLOYMENT, AND FERTILITY

David Shapiro with B. Oleko Tambashe

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction and Overview	1
Part I. Education, Employment, Fertility, and Mortality, 1955-1990: An Overview	11
1. From Leopoldville to Kinshasa	13
2. Education and Employment	27
3. Levels and Trends in Mortality and Fertility	45
Part II. Socioeconomic and Proximate Determinants of Fertility	57
4. Ethnicity, Education, and Fertility: 1955-1990	59
5. Family Background and Early Life Course Transitions	89
6. Proximate Determinants of Fertility	111
7. Contraception and Abortion: A Closer Look	135
8. Secondary Education and Fertility Decline	153
Part III. Schooling, Extended-Family Solidarity, Employment in the Formal and Informal Sectors, and Migration	167
9. Gender, Poverty, Family Structure, and Investments in Children's Education	169
10. Extended-Family Solidarity: Interhousehold Resource Transfers in Support of Children's Schooling and Child Fostering	195
11. Education and Employment in the Formal and Informal Sectors	213
12. Migration, Education, and Employment	231
Part IV. Prospects for Changes in the Future	243
13. Economic Crisis and Further Transitions in Education, Employment, and Fertility	245
Appendix Major Ethnic Groups in Kinshasa	253
References	259
Index	271